Making documentaries

We are spending a day with the explorer William Savage who is living in Ethiopia to make a TV programme about different tribes.

Why are you in Ethiopia? What are you doing here?

I like to see places that people usually don't visit. My job is to show people back home in England what life is like for other people around the world. I'm staying with the Nyangatom tribe and their lives are very different from mine in London!

What is life with the Nyangatom like?

Life can be very challenging for the Nyangatom. Their land is dry like a desert and there's very little water in most places. The people work very hard to take care of their cattle, and to make sure they have enough water and food to survive. The Nyangatom are tough because they don't have hospitals and only use herbs and plants for medicine. Patients learn to become very strong and people take care of each other. For example, medicine men will bring traditional treatments, neighbours will give food and children will sing songs. We could all learn a lot from the Nyangatom.

How long do you stay in one place?

It depends. I once spent a year in the Arctic. I'll be with the Nyangatom for just one month before I move on to live with another Ethiopian tribe. I'm still planning many things.

What made you become an explorer?

I love to understand different cultures – their languages and lifestyles. There's a whole world full of people out there to learn about!
